By direction of the President of the United States of America, the Presidential Unit Citation is awarded to

FIRST BATTALION, 254TH INFANTRY REGIMENT, 63D INFANTRY DIVISION

for extraordinary heroism in action against an armed enemy:

First Battalion, 254th Infantry Regiment, 63d Infantry Division is cited for outstanding accomplishment in combat during the period 0100 hours, 15 March 1945 to 2400 hours, 15 March 1945, near Ensheim, Germany in clearing the well-defended approach to the Siegfried Line in its assigned sector. In a twenty-three hour period the First Battalion cleared four enemy towns which stood as outposts to the Siegfried Line and which were defended fanatically by tanks, ground troops, and tremendous batteries of artillery. Simultaneously attacking Hartingahof and Eschringen, elements of the Battalion smashed their way into these towns and cleared them through sheer speed and relentless drive. One company of the Battalion held an estimated Battalion of enemy on the outskirts of Neumuhlerhof for over eight hours, while the rest of the unit attacked the last and most strongly fortified town outposting the Siegfried Line: Ensheim. Here the Battalion met seven tanks and an enemy who turned each house into a pillbox, each street into a miniature battlefield as they resisted with every ground weapon available. Counterattack followed counterattack, as the Germans poured reinforcements from the nearby pillboxes in an attempt to stop the slow but ever-advancing troops. Finally, however, at nightfall, after the Battalion had eliminated three of their tanks, the German troops were forced to retreat to their concrete fortifications in the Siegfried Line. Because the First Battalion had achieved its mission so swiftly, daringly, and courageously, the 254th Infantry became the first unit of the Seventh Army to breach the famed Siegfried Line defenses. The heroic actions of the First Battalion, 254th Infantry Regiment, 63d Infantry Division reflect great credit upon its members and the United States Army.
